

VERY LIGHT JETS LATIN AMERICA AN CARIBBEAN
2nd Annual Summit, Conference and Workshop
Miami, Florida USA
November 10-11th, 2008

Invitation from the Conference Chairman

Dear Very Light Jet Industry Stakeholder:

The Very Light Jet (VLJ) industry is growing and presents us with important challenges and abundant opportunities. The Latin America and Caribbean regions are fertile grounds for us to reap extraordinary benefits from the VLJ's and the technologies surrounding them.

Making the right decisions about key factors, such as fuel prices and the environment could create significant gains for your business and save the industry millions per year.

MIU is celebrating its second VLJ Latin America and Caribbean conference in Miami. As I have the honor to be the event Chairman, allow me to invite you to attend and participate. I look forward to meeting and sharing with you.

We have speakers and panels of industry leaders representing most sectors of the VLJ commerce-chain s in the Americas. The conference will build upon the three initiatives launched in 2007(open skies, cooperative-style pilot networks and a Latin American/Caribbean business aircraft association) and launch new ones. See Aviation International News (AIN) and reports from the 2007 event:

The innovative and interactive "forum" like VLJ Financing Workshop will surely add value to the insights gained during the conference. The decision making tools arisen during this conference could steer your business toward the highest levels of safety, efficiency and profitability.

Best regards and see you in Miami
